Campaign Statement

For 80 years, the American Society of Appraisers has been the voice or our profession and in that time has evolved and matured to the organisation we have become. Today, we find ourselves at a pivotal juncture in our history and I am confident that I can offer the experience, maturity and global perspective that can help move us forward.

The Background
With more than 20 years as an appraiser, and currently with a leading boutique practice focused upon aviation, my experience with the profession and ASA is longstanding. On June 30, 2020, my term as Secretary/Treasurer will come to an end, which includes my involvement on the Investment and the Budget & Finance Committees. During this year, I have been actively involved in many of the organisational and administrative changes we have seen and I am proud of that effort.

In recent years, we have seen some dramatic changes in the ASA Leadership and we are now in an advantageous position to gain from our new CEO, one who implements the vision of where we as an organisation want to go. As a member of the Board and as an International Officer I would like to take a firm role in seeing the Board provide the CEO with that vision.

I have seen where development and change have recently occurred. I’m also acutely aware of how the ASA has a need for stability and growth to remain relevant and also provide better value to our stakeholders worldwide.

The Goals
Increase Membership
Strategically, during the next 5 years the ASA needs to broaden its membership base in order to remain globally effective and relevant. As we look towards expanding the ASA footprint, both domestically and internationally, our organisation and professional support structure must increase exponentially.

Improve Career Development
As a world-class organisation ASA needs to continue to build world-class education delivery systems. We need better support to develop and deliver continuing professional education to our membership, based in multiple formats and in multiple time-zones with the appropriate relevance and requirements of our members. This includes integrated on-line offerings, classes available at appropriate regional times and other subjects that address the changing face of our profession.

Expand Member Benefits
Hand-in-hand with enhancing our global appeal and improving our career and professional development programs is creating benefits for every member. This will include more relevant conference offerings, better access to resources on the ASA website, and more transparency regarding solutions to issues that will directly affect your practice and professional life.
The Mission
With your support, my goal is to continue to work towards a more unified association, one that considers the differences of the various appraisal disciplines yet values the similarity that each brings. In doing that, we can raise the inherent value of ASA membership for each of us.

In addition, I want to be part of helping to develop a global identity for our Society, providing value worldwide. In so doing, we can identify the future members and leaders of our profession and help them determine the Society’s vision going forward.
