Professional Education Equivalency Certification Program (PEECP)

Looking for options to expand or diversify your business, or taking your career to the next level? Have you considered adding another designation or specialty? When it comes to appraising, no other designation offers the recognition and respect as the ASA designation.

>ASA Helps You Succeed

When it comes to appraising, no other designation offers the recognition and respect as the ASA credential. It is also one of the most difficult to obtain due to its education and experience requirements. The American Society of Appraisers welcomes members from other organizations and offers a pathway to earning the ASA credential through its Professional Education Equivalency Certification Program (PEECP). This special program recognizes past commitments and outlines steps to becoming an Accredited Senior Appraiser and a recognized leader in the profession. The program also opens the door to earning additional specialty credentials in appraisal review, entity and intangible valuations, gemology or going concerns.

ASA is the only appraisal organization to offer multidiscipline accreditation programs with designations in:

- Appraisal Review and Management
- Business Valuation
- Gems & Jewelry
- Machinery & Technical Specialties
- Personal Property
- Real Property
